

This architectural elevation drawing shows the front facade of the building. It features a long, low profile with a series of windows. On the left, there is a section with a dark, textured wall and a row of four small, square windows. To the right of this, the facade is composed of larger windows, some of which are grouped together. A prominent gabled section is located on the right side of the drawing, featuring a small, square window. The drawing uses simple lines and shading to represent the building's form and materials.
